Dr. Margaret A. Schlientz, has Masters degrees in Theology (Marquette University), Spirituality (Creighton University), Psychiatric Nursing (University of Maryland) and a Doctorate in Psychiatric Nursing (University of Pittsburgh).

In her professional career as a university administrator and teacher (Marquette University), she has developed the integration of the psychological and spiritual relationship necessary for human growth and development.

With her professional expertise, she works as a national consultant as an agent of change affecting the internal culture within the health care system. Because of the value integration for human growth, she has consulted with numerous religious communities and dioceses.

In addition to her work with health care systems she is the Assistant Director at the Institute for Priestly Formation at Creighton University where she teaches and ministers to diocesan seminarians in an intensive ten week spiritual renewal program each summer.

Also, she is part of the team with the Institute training diocesan priests in a three year program in spiritual direction integrating the Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius Loyola.

Committed to the ministry of healing she has taught numerous workshops throughout the world aiding clergy and laity in the ministry of healing and deliverance. She previously chaired the Conference on Deliverance and Exorcism annually held in August each year beginning in 2005 at Mundelein Seminary, Mundelein IL.

The Pope Leo XIII Institute was founded by Margaret for the education of priests in exorcism and deliverance. She was executive director from 2012 until 2015.
